

An aerial photograph of a large agricultural field, possibly corn, with several pink polygons overlaid. The polygons are of various shapes and sizes, some overlapping. Numerous grey dots are scattered across the field, with a higher concentration within the pink polygons. The text 'For development purposes only' is repeated across the image.

For development purposes only

For development purposes only

For development purposes only

For development purposes only

For development purposes only

For development purposes only

For development purposes only

For development purposes only